MEET THE PRESS WEEKEND LISTINGS

Jan. 2: This Sunday, as the 112th Congress convenes on Wednesday, what will 2011 hold for the GOP? After intense battles during the lame-duck session over Don't Ask Don't Tell, the New START Treaty, and Bush-era tax cuts, and with their new increased numbers, how will Senate Republicans respond to the Obama and Democratic agenda? We'll speak exclusively with Senator Lindsey Graham (R-SC) about his party's agenda in the New Year and beyond.

Then, can President Obama and Republicans continue to compromise in 2011, or will posturing in advance of the 2012 presidential race lead to gridlock on the tough issues like job growth, the debt, and the deficit? Our roundtable looks at the politics of the new year, the economy, our two wars, and even the politics of snow fall: The New York Times' David Brooks, The Washington Post's E.J. Dionne, Yale law professor and author Stephen Carter, and BBC World News America's Washington Correspondent Katty Kay, and Senator-elect Pat Toomey (R-PA).

Jan. 9: In an exclusive interview, Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid talks about the challenges ahead in the new Congress. Plus, a special roundtable of Rep. Gabrielle Giffords' friends: Rep. Raul Grijalva (D-AZ), Rep. Trent Franks (R-AZ), Rep. Debbie Wasserman Schultz (D-FL), Rep. Emanuel Cleaver (D-MO), and newly-elected Rep. Raul Labrador (R-ID).

Jan. 16: Discussion and debate about guns in America and the tone of political discourse with Sens. Chuck Schumer and Tom Coburn. Then, the latest on the condition of Rep. Gabrielle Giffords, from her friend Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand. Plus, a roundtable: David Brooks, Peggy Noonan, Rev. Al Sharpton and Tim Shriver.

Jan. 23: How will Republicans exercise their new majority in the House? Can the trend of compromise from the lame duck session and the tone of civility in the aftermath of Arizona continue in the 112th Congress? Majority Leader Eric Cantor joins us for an exclusive interview. Plus, a roundtable: Rep. James Clyburn (D-SC), Karen Hughes, John Podesta, Ron Brownstein and Erin Burnett.

Jan. 30: Continued unrest in Egypt, as tens of thousands of protestors take to the streets, defying a military curfew and attempts to quell the protests. We talk with Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, Richard Engel, Mitch McConnell, Martin Indyk, Tom Friedman, Mike Murphy, Harold Ford Jr., Chuck Todd and Katty Kay.

Feb. 6: Special coverage on the fast moving situation in Egypt continues with opposition activist Mohamed ElBaradei, NBC's Richard Engel, Sameh Shoukry, Egypt's ambassador to the U.S., and Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass. Then, what does the Reagan legacy mean today? Our guests: James Baker, Peggy Noonan, Willie Brown and Andrea Mitchell.

Feb. 13: What's next for U.S. foreign policy in the Middle East? Will Republicans find common ground with President Obama? House Speaker John Boehner joins us exclusively. Then, will the revolution in Egypt spread? Martin Indyk and Robin Wright join us. Plus, a roundtable: Democratic Atlanta Mayor Kasim Reed, Rep. Bobby Schilling, R-Ill., Dee Dee Myers, David Brooks and Mark Halperin.

Feb. 20: U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, Susan Rice, joins us exclusively. Then, an exclusive discussion with Sen. Dick Durbin, D-Ill., and Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C. Plus, a roundtable: former Mich. Gov. Jennifer Granholm, former Rep. Harold Ford, D-Tenn., Ed Gillespie and Rick Santelli.

Feb. 27: What's next for the standoff in Wisconsin? Gov. Scott Walker joins us exclusively. Then, Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., ranking member of the Armed Services Committee and one of the first U.S.

senators to go to the Middle East since the unrest began, joins us from Cairo. Plus, a roundtable: Haley Barbour, Emanuel Cleaver, Lawrence O'Donnell, Richard Trumka and Kim Strassel.

March 6: In an exclusive interview with the new White House Chief of Staff Bill Daley, we get the latest from the White House on what's next in the budget battle and will the president, once again, assume the role of deal-maker-in-chief in this showdown? Then, a Republican response from the head of the Tea Party caucus in the House, Rep. Michele Bachmann, R-Minn. Plus, a roundtable: Eugene Robinson and David Brooks.

March 13: The latest on the growing crisis in Japan with Lester Holt, Amb. Ichiro Fujisaki and nuclear reactor expert Marvin Fertel. Then, potential GOP presidential contender Indiana Gov. Mitch Daniels joins us live for an exclusive interview. Also, New York Senator Chuck Schumer joins us for a live interview. Plus, a roundtable: Dan Balz, Michele Norris.

March 20: The very latest on the military campaign in Libya from the president's top military adviser, Admiral Mike Mullen. Then, Sens. Levin, Sessions and Kerry on the escalation. Plus, a roundtable: Jim Miklaszewski, Andrea Mitchell, Helene Cooper, Michael Hayden and Richard Haass.

March 27: Secretary of State Hillary Clinton and Secretary of Defense Robert Gates join us as President Obama faces criticism from both Republicans and Democrats for his decision to use force in Libya. Then, the ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. Richard Lugar (R-IN) will join us exclusively. Plus, a roundtable: Bob Woodward, Ted Koppel, Tom Ricks and Savannah Guthrie.

DATELINE NBC

Friday, January 7: After surviving a violent robbery that left a revered Oklahoma pastor and his wife dead, a son and daughter attempt to move on with their lives despite the multiple trials of their parents' killers. Keith Morrison reports on the difficult search for healing and how their story of tragedy came to be a Hollywood film.

Sunday, January 9: Ann Curry travels to the remote hills of Haiti, following a group of American volunteers on a risky rescue mission as they take a giant leap into the unknown to save lives and transform the village of Medor. In this powerful episode of "Dateline," Curry reports on how the fight against cholera is also a fight against time.

In a compelling new "Dateline" franchise, "The Hansen Files," Chris Hansen and "Dateline's" hidden cameras uncover secrets and scams-- from a practicing psychotherapist with a dark secret, to fortune tellers who convince people to part with cash, and a look into a nationwide scam involving air duct cleaning companies.

CHRIS HANSEN RETURNS TO SIN CITY TO GIVE VIEWERS A RARE, BEHIND-THE-SCENES LOOK INSIDE A MURDER INVESTIGATION

Special 2-hour "Dateline" Aired Friday, Jan. 14th at 9 PM/ET

This Friday's 2-hour episode of "Dateline" gives viewers a rare, behind-the-scenes look inside undercover police operations in Sin City. A special occurrence on primetime television, Chris Hansen and "Dateline's" hidden cameras are granted unprecedented and exclusive access to Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department investigations, including the ability to follow homicide detectives around the clock to capture events as they unfold in real time. Airing Jan. 14 from 9-11 PM/ET, this unique production offers a revealing look into the physical and emotional challenges of protecting a city where over 110 murders happen each year. At 9 PM/ET, Hansen returns to Vegas for a third edition of "Vegas Undercover," following investigators from the Repeat Offenders Program, and the intelligence and homicide units as they search for clues, suspects and justice. Then at 10 PM/ET, Hansen takes crime reporting to a whole new level as "Dateline" cameras are on the scene from the moment the police receive a call to investigate a high-profile murder, to the discovery of the body in a Vegas suburb, and the ultimate capture of the killer— with all the twists and turns along the way.

Friday, January 21: THE MAN WHO TALKED TO DOGS - When a dog trainer to the stars disappears, his friends and co-workers fear the worst. Keith Morrison follows all the twists and turns in the case as investigators track down the suspect with the help of two witnesses who were in the right place at the right time.

Sunday, January 23: Matt Lauer with actor Michael Douglas on his battle with cancer. In the interview, Douglas discusses in detail how his life has changed since his diagnosis, the support he's received from his family and friends, and the imposition of the ever-present paparazzi.

Sunday, February 6: The story of Aron Ralston- the climber who freed himself from a crushing boulder in Blue John Canyon, Utah- stunned the world and inspired the Oscar-nominated film, "127 Hours." Nearly eight years later, Ralston speaks with NBC News' Tom Brokaw about his new life as a father and husband.

Friday, February 11: Carolyn and Sean Savage's joy turns to disbelief when they learn that a rare mistake at an in-vitro clinic left Carolyn pregnant with someone else's child. NBC News' Meredith Vieira reports on the personal sacrifices the couple chose to make in an inspiring story of love, courage, and forgiveness. A decorated detective becomes the prime suspect in a cold case murder when DNA test results surprise her fellow officers at the Los Angeles Police Department. Though she denies the allegations against her, the LAPD must investigate and handcuff one of their own. Josh Mankiewicz reports.

Sunday, February 13: Meredith Vieira sits down with Janet Jackson to discuss her revealing new book. In the interview, Jackson opens up about her complex childhood and longstanding issues with self esteem, her career highs and lows, her struggles with weight, and her relationship with her family. A Tennessee nurse fights to prove her innocence after her husband inexplicably dies from a diabetes drug-- and he was not a diabetic. NBC News' Kate Snow reports.

Friday, February 18: Keith Morrison tells the story behind the story of a top ranking officer in the Canadian military who pleaded guilty to an astonishing number of predatory crimes, beginning with home break-ins and lingerie theft, and escalating all the way to murder.

Sunday, February 20: Critics may call her irresponsible, but Suzanne Somers says America's doctors aren't telling cancer patients the whole truth. Dr. Nancy Snyderman speaks with Somers about the experiences that propelled her to write one of her most controversial books to date.

Friday, February 25: Dennis Murphy takes a closer look at a rivalry between two teenage girls that turned deadly when threats made over internet and cell phones turned into blood on the streets of a Tampa neighborhood.

An Indiana wife and mother is found trapped under a barbell in her basement gym and dies from asphyxiation. Dennis Murphy reports on the mysterious cause of death and some surprising footage from a home security camera that turned an apparent accident into a murder case.

Sunday, February 27: Keith Morrison reports on an incredible deep-sea disaster, the sinking of cruise ship Oceanos, and the amazing stories of its survivors.

Friday, March 4: It was 1983 when a beautiful young mother was found dead in her home in California, and it wasn't long until her case turned cold. Keith Morrison reports on how years later, a retired detective reopened her case searching for answers using DNA testing and a photographer's diary.

CHARLIE SHEEN: WINNING WAYS? Jeff Rossen--who sat down with actor Charlie Sheen for several interviews this week-- has the latest details on Sheen's family situation and his reactions to the recent media frenzy surrounding his lifestyle and the halted production of 'Two and a Half Men.'

BULLYING ISSUES BECOME A REALITY FOR KIDS AND THEIR PARENTS THIS SUNDAY ON "DATELINE NBC" Kate Snow's provocative hidden-camera report looks at how kids really respond to bullying when they don't know their parents are watching— Sunday, March 6th at 7 PM/ET

This Sunday at 7 PM/ET, "Dateline NBC" takes a provocative and revealing look at how kids really respond to bullying when they don't know their parents are watching. With the help of child behavior experts, volunteer parents, and kid actors playing along as bullies and victims, "Dateline's" hidden cameras are in the room when unsuspecting teenagers are put to the test in various apparent bullying situations. From boys getting rough in a school gym, to girls picking on others because of their clothes and weight, will these kids do what their parents hope and predict? "Dateline" correspondent Kate Snow watches with the parents as they get to see how their children handle the different scenarios, and talks to them about the sometimes surprising reactions. These volunteer parents agreed to participate in this report in the hopes of learning some valuable lessons, and to prompt conversations among other parents and their children across the country.

Friday, March 11: Reporting on the devastating tsunami that hit Japan, Hawaii and the West Coast, correspondent Kate Snow will report on the very latest. Then, stay tuned as one newlywed couple goes diving on the Great Barrier Reef for their honeymoon, no one would have believed that just one of them would return to the surface alive. Dennis Murphy reports on how investigators attempt to fill in the pieces of this mysterious death and try to uncover whether it was an accident or something worse.

Sunday, March 13: Caught on tape! "Dateline NBC" takes a look at the wild and unpredictable world of animals -- from heartwarming stories of animal rescues to terrifying animal attacks.

Friday, March 18: Chris Hansen tells the story of a bitter divorce and what happens when a mother makes a fateful decision that will dramatically affect the lives of her four children. Unbridled rage and sinister plotting, as a camera rolls.

San Diego detectives must piece together the life of a young mother to find out who killed her and her 10-month old baby. Josh Mankiewicz reports on how the list of suspects was narrowed down to one, thanks to a paternity test and questionable online searches left on a personal computer.

Sunday, March 20: With only six weeks before the highly anticipated royal wedding, Kate Snow reports on what most believed at the time was the perfect storybook romance of Diana and Charles. From the ring to the dress, the bridesmaid to a special guest, Snow looks back at the making of the ultimate royal wedding.

Friday, March 25: Josh Mankiewicz tells the story of how one woman, covered in dirt and blood, is found on a rural road in Washington state. Investigators and prosecutors must piece together the brutal, life altering injury that leaves her with no memory of the incident and severe brain damage.

A baffling and terrifying story, a little girl is kidnapped by a family friend. Keith Morrison reports on how a determined woman finds her way back home after more than 30 years.

Sunday, March 27: Keith Morrison and the "Dateline" cameras go inside 'Breakthrough' an intensive week-long group therapy session. Viewers will see how one man, struggling with the demons of a drug-induced and abusive childhood works through his issues of pain and rage and how he's able to breakthrough and begin to start over.
